

Key Findings 2020 and onward

- The dataset includes 85 numbered UFC events and 427 main-card bouts from 2020 through the latest 2026 update.
- Islam Makhachev leads all fighters with nine main-card wins and a perfect record in qualifying bouts. Valentina Shevchenko, Alex Pereira, and Sean O'Malley follow with eight wins each.
- Makhachev also holds the highest current Elo rating at approximately 1,632, separating himself from the other leading fighters.
- Several fighters have a 100% win rate with at least three appearances, although their total fight counts vary. Makhachev's nine victories make his undefeated rate especially notable.
- Numbered-event main cards peaked at approximately 70 bouts in both 2023 and 2024. The lower 2026 total reflects a season still in progress.
- Lightweight and welterweight are the most frequently represented divisions, followed by middleweight and bantamweight.
- The largest Elo upsets include Sean Strickland defeating Khamzat Chimaev and Petr Yan defeating Merab Dvalishvili, with both winners entering at approximately a 36% expected win probability
